Letters to the Editors

Dear Nick Mag,

How long does it take to write an issue of the magazine, print it, and get it into stores?

Nicholas B., age 11
Nashua, New Hampshire

Dear Nicholas,

Making an issue of NICKELODEON MAGAZINE takes about three months—from when we start racking our brains for ideas to when the magazines are in the racks at newsstands and stores. We'd take less time, but if we rack our brains any faster, we'll wreck 'em.

Dear Nick Mag,

How much money does Zelda Van Gutters make?

Katie T., age 10
North Attleboro, Massachusetts

Dear Katie,

Zelda has negotiated a new, top-secret contract with the big bowzers here at NICKELODEON MAGAZINE. We have no idea what her salary is, but she was just seen at Groomingdale's buying a solid gold water bowl and a diamond-studded collar.

© 1998 Oscar Mayer Foods, © 1998 Viacom International Inc. All Rights Reserved. Nickelodeon, Hey Arnold!, nickelOzone and all related titles, logos, and characters are trademarks of Viacom International Inc. Items available from Long Hall Technologies. LUNCHABLES® and NICKELODEON® NICKELOZONE™ GAME OFFICIAL RULES: 1. NO PURCHASE NECESSARY: To receive a free Official Game Message, send a self-addressed, stamped, 4-1/8" x 9-1/2" (#10) envelope to: LUNCHABLES and NICKELODEON nickelOzone™ Requests, P.O. Box 5137, Blair, NE 68009-5137. Residents of VT and WA only need not affix postage to return envelopes. Limit one request per outer mailing envelope. Requests must be received by 1/29/99. 2. HERE'S HOW IT WORKS: Look inside specially marked packages of Oscar Mayer® Lunchables® Fun Pack Lunch Combinations for the official game message. If your game message is one of the four Collect and Win letters, carefully cut out the game message and save it to try to collect all four Collect and Win game messages, each showing one of the following letters: "Z," "O," "N," "E" to win a Grand Prize (subject to verification). If the official game message printed inside the package says "Congratulations! You are an Instant Winner..." you win a First Prize (subject to verification). To claim a prize, see Rule #3. 3. TO CLAIM A PRIZE: Mail your request, in a hand-addressed, stamped, #10 envelope along with your name, address (including zip code) and telephone number, hand-printed on 3" x 5" paper to: LUNCHABLES and NICKELODEON nickelOzone Claims, P.O. Box 5141, Blair, NE 68009-5141. All claims must be sent VIA REGISTERED MAIL ONLY, to be received by 2/19/99. All claims are subject to verification. All claims submitted become the sole property of Kraft Foods, Inc., and none will be returned. No correspondence will be acknowledged or entered into. Game materials are void if obtained where prohibited by law, obtained through unauthorized distribution channels and/or if any part is illegible, mutilated, altered, forged, duplicated or tampered with in any way or if it contains printing, typographical, mechanical or other errors. Liability for any irregular or defective game message is limited to replacement with another, while supplies last. 4. GENERAL RULES: Game open only to U.S. residents who are 15 years of age or younger as of 7/1/98. Employees of Oscar Mayer Foods, MTV Networks, their respective parent companies, affiliates, subsidiaries, agents, advertising and promotion agencies, printers of all game materials and the immediate families of each are not eligible. Void where prohibited. All federal, state and local laws and regulations apply. All federal, state and local taxes are the sole responsibility of winners. Winners will be notified by mail. Prizes shipped to U.S. addresses only. No substitution or transfer of prize permitted. If prize is not generally available at game's end, another prize of equal or greater value will be substituted at sponsor's option. Potential Grand Prize winners must sign and return any required Affidavit of Eligibility/Release of Liability/Prize Acceptance Form within 15 days of notification. Noncompliance within this time period or return of any prize/prize notification as undeliverable will result in disqualification and an alternate will be selected. All Grand Prize travelers must execute a Release of Liability prior to ticketing. Grand Prizes will be awarded in the names of winners' parents/legal guardians who must accompany minors on trip. Grand Prize travel must be on dates specified by sponsor. Dates of departure and return are subject to change. Acceptance of prize offered constitutes permission for Oscar Mayer Foods, MTV Networks, their respective parent companies, affiliates, subsidiaries, agents, advertising and promotion agencies to use winner's name, voice and/or likeness for purposes of advertising and trade without further compensation, unless prohibited by law. Not responsible for lost, late, mishandled, misdirected or postage due claims/mail. Limit one prize per family/household. The decisions of D.L. Blair, Inc., an independent judging organization, are final in all matters relating to this offer, including winner verification. If, due to an administrative, printing or production error, more instant winner prize messages are distributed, or more prizes are claimed than are intended to be awarded according to Rule #5, prizes will be awarded in a random drawing from among all verified prize claims received for that prize level. In no event will the sponsor be obligated to award more than the stated number of prizes. Entrants agree to release, discharge and hold Oscar Mayer and MTV Networks harmless and their respective parent companies, subsidiaries, affiliates, officers, directors, shareholders, employees, agents, attorneys, other representatives, advertising, promotion, fulfillment agencies, and the persons with whom each of the above are domiciled, from and against any and all liability or damages associated with this game or acceptance, use or misuse of any prize received in this game. 5. AVAILABLE "COLLECT AND WIN" PRIZES, APPROX. RETAIL VALUE AND APPROX. ODDS. (3) Grand Prizes - A 5-day/4-night trip for a family of four to Orlando, FL, to host the Nickelodeon nickelOzone. Subject to availability. In the event Nickelodeon does not resume production of nickelOzone, another similar programming block may be substituted at the sole discretion of MTV Networks. MTV Networks reserves the right to select the particular program block in which winner will appear. Prize includes round trip coach air transportation from major airport nearest winners' home, hotel accommodations (2-bedroom suite), VIP tour of Nickelodeon Studios, four one-day admission tickets to Universal Studios Florida and $1,000 spending money ($6,126 ea.). Approximate odds of receiving the rare Collect and Win game messages are 1 in 17,563,333. All non-rare Collect and Win game message letters are distributed equally. AVAILABLE "INSTANT WIN" PRIZES, APPROX. RETAIL VALUE AND APPROX. ODDS OF WINNING: (1,000) First Prizes - A Nickelodeon PhotoBlaster™, a Nickelodeon TimeBlaster™ and a Nickelodeon TalkBlaster™ ($129.85 ea. prize), 1:52,690. Total approximate retail value of all prizes $148,228.00. Unclaimed prizes will not be awarded. Prizes consist of only those items listed as part of the prize. 6. ARBITRATION: As a condition of entering this promotion, participant agrees that: (a) any and all disputes, claims and causes of action arising out of or connected with this promotion, or any prizes awarded, shall be resolved individually, without resort to any form of class action, and exclusively by arbitration (under the rules of the American Arbitration Association located in Chicago, Illinois); (b) any and all claims, judgments and awards shall be limited to actual out-of-pocket costs incurred, including cost associated with entering this promotion but in no event attorneys' fees; and (c) participant hereby waives all rights to claim punitive, incidental and consequential damages or any other damages, other than actual out-of-pocket expenses, and any and all rights to have damages multiplied or increased. 7. WINNERS LIST: For the names of winners, available after 5/1/99, send a separate, stamped, self-addressed #10 envelope to: LUNCHABLES and NICKELODEON nickelOzone Winners, P.O. Box 5145, Blair, NE 68009-5145.

Whatever We Want

Welcome to the Brainy Issue

We thought hard about a theme for our September issue and set our minds on the brain. It's the one school supply you can't afford to go without! In case your mind is a little rusty after summer vacation, there's chalk at the bottom of the page, so you can keep notes.

GOING OUR WAY?

In honor of our fifth birthday, the City of New York agreed to change the name of Broadway at Forty-fifth Street (where our offices are located) to NICKELODEON MAGAZINE Way (just for a few weeks). Here's a photo of our Broadway debut.

What's Inside the Brain of a ... BRAIN?

I'm such a brain.

I've got some nerve!

I have a me-ache.

What's this person's name? Oh, no—this is gonna be embarrassing!

I am, therefore I think.

I've got a nervous system.

"Memories..." 🎵 🎵 🎵

I've got my wits about me.

Why am I the only one who does any thinking around here?

Of course I mind!

Fame ^{Real} on the BRAIN

We mined these celebrity minds.

Gwyneth Paltrow of Great Expectations and
A Perfect Murder

Do you have a good memory?

It depends. I'm really good at memorizing scripts—but then I'll forget where I put my car keys!

What were your best and worst subjects in school?

The easiest subjects for me were always history and literature. Math and science were harder.

Who would you like to trade brains with?

Sir Isaac Newton [mathematician and physicist], because his brain worked in a completely different way from mine.

Who are your favorite authors?

Growing up, I loved books by Roald Dahl—especially Danny, the Champion of the World. My favorites now are J.D. Salinger and Fyodor Dostoyevsky.

Shawn Wayans
of The Wayans Bros.

Who is your all-time favorite teacher?

Miss Clark. She threw birthday parties for everyone and read us books, such as Charlie and the Chocolate Factory. She taught five of the kids in my family, and we still keep in touch with her.

And I thought I was the teacher's pet.

Katie Holmes
of Dawson's Creek

Who is your all-time favorite teacher?

One of my English teachers back in Toledo, Ohio, named Laura Gallagher. I went to a rather strict all-girls school, but she was very open-minded and down-to-earth.

Is English your best subject?

No, I have a math mind.

Dennis Quaid
of The Parent Trap

Have you ever been called a brain?

Never was, and never will be.

Who is the smartest person you've ever met?

My wife [Meg Ryan], because she never lets me win an argument.

Melissa Joan Hart
of Sabrina, the Teenage Witch

What's your secret to memorizing lines?

I don't know if I'd call it a secret, but I study my lines the night before taping to keep them fresh in my mind.

SMART

Three people who know a lot about animal, human, and artificial

SMART BIRDS:
Irene Pepperberg
and her parrots
(from left) Kyaaro,
Alex, and Griffin.

She's for the Birds

Irene Pepperberg studies African gray parrots at the University of Arizona, where she is a professor of psychology and of ecology and evolutionary biology.

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: Why did you decide to study bird intelligence?

IRENE PEPPERBERG: About twenty years ago, when I was a chemistry student, I was watching a TV program about birds. It occurred to me that nobody had done the kind of animal communication work with birds that was being done with chimps and dolphins. So, I decided that's what I wanted to do.

How many African gray parrots do you work with?

Three. Alex is twenty-two years old. I've worked with him for twenty-one of those years. Kyaaro is seven-and-a-half, and Griffin is a little bit over three.

What kinds of things have they learned?

They can name and categorize objects. Alex knows about fifty different words for objects. The parrots also know quantities up to and including six. And they recognize colors, shapes, and materials.

How do you know the birds really understand things and aren't just "parroting" back answers?

We know because of all the tests we've given them. For example, I'll show Alex two objects and ask him to tell me the color of the bigger object or what's different about the two objects. He has to choose the correct response from many different possible answers. You can't just parrot that.

How do the birds measure up against humans in intelligence?

Very nicely. They're at the level of a four- or five-year-old.

Do they ever say anything funny?

Sometimes Alex gets very agitated or upset and I'll say to him, "Calm down." So now when he sees people in the lab acting upset, he'll say, "Calm down."

Where do you think the expression "birdbrain" came from?

Many people's early experiences with birds are on a farm, and a bird such as a domestic chicken has been bred for stupidity—to sit quietly and not try to escape. But it's amazing how smart wild birds are.

How is what you've learned about birds important to people?

The studies force us to think more about conservation. These animals are so intelligent. We have to be more careful about destroying their habitats. Also, one of my fellow scientists is using the training techniques we use with the birds to help children who have learning problems. She's having great success.

An Open Mind

As a brain surgeon at Beth Israel Hospital in New York City, Dr. Fred Epstein has had some very close encounters with the human brain.

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: Did you always want to be a brain surgeon?

DR. FRED EPSTEIN: First I wanted to be a garbage man, but by the time I was six or seven years old, I wanted to be a doctor. Then in medical school I became fascinated with neural anatomy [the structure of the nervous system] and surgery, so I went into brain surgery.

Did you get called a brain as a kid?

No. I had learning disabilities. I almost couldn't get through college science. But it taught me not to be afraid of failure. Most people won't take a chance, because they're afraid of looking dumb, but I got used to it.

What surprised you most the first time you saw a human brain?

It pulsates. That's because it has so many blood vessels, which carry nourishment—and the brain needs a lot of nourishment. If you look at a brain, you'd think it was a little bit like a heart because of how it moves.

People use the term gray matter to describe the brain. Is it really gray?

I don't know why they call it gray matter—it's actually pink. Gray matter is just the outer part of the brain. It's only about a quarter-inch thick and is a concentration of nerve cells. It's probably the area of the brain we think with most.

What about the part people call white matter?

White matter is the stuff that's deeper inside. It looks white, because it's made of a fatty substance called myelin. The myelin is like the rubber around electrical wires: It prevents the brain from short-circuiting.

Does having a large head mean you have a big brain?
No.

Does having a big brain mean you're smarter?
No. Albert Einstein had a very small brain.

What does it mean when people say we only use ten percent of our brains?

I have no idea. I don't know where people came up with that. But it reminds me of when I was in training, and there was a woman who had seizures in the temporal area of the brain [where some memories are stored]. She thought she was in first grade again. She could name every child in her class. We went back and checked, and she was correct. So maybe there's an awful lot of stuff that's stored in the brain, waiting to be called up.

What's the difference between a kid's brain and an adult's brain?

All the elements in a person's brain are there by six or seven years of age. Then the brain continues to grow and expand until about nine or ten years old, when it's pretty close to full size.

Which is sharper: the brain of a typical ten-year-old or a tack?

A ten-year-old. No contest.

Metal Head

Will Neveitt studies artificial intelligence at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), where he has led tours of the lab where robots are built.

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: What do scientists study at the Artificial Intelligence Lab study?

WILL NEVEITT: We're studying what it takes to make a machine that can think. We're trying to understand how the brain works by building machines that do what brains do.

Can machines really think?

It depends on your definition of thinking. Machines are good at solving problems that require you to think ahead and look at lots of possibilities—like you do when you play chess. They're less good at being creative or understanding speech, and they don't have common sense.

Are robots examples of artificial intelligence?

Some are—the ones we call autonomous robots can make decisions without being remote controlled. They're different from the robots that are programmed to do exactly the same thing over and over again.

What kinds of things can the robots at the Artificial Intelligence Lab do?

We created one [called 3D Biped, at left] that could do gymnastics. It had two legs and could run on a treadmill, do a full forward somersault and regain its balance.

Could you put a super-gymnast computer chip into the brain of someone who had no gymnastic ability and turn him or her into a champion?

The idea of putting computer chips into the brains of living things is one of the most exciting areas of artificial intelligence. People are doing it right now, in very limited ways. Scientists in Japan have been able to wire a computer chip to a cockroach's head, hook the roach up to a joystick, and steer the insect around.

What kinds of things will robots with artificial intelligence be used for?

One has already been sent to Mars. We're working on another called Pebbles that will be able to respond to many different situations. If it's walking toward a cliff on Mars, for example, and there isn't enough time for us to send a message from Earth telling it to stop, it will be able to react on its own.

In 1997, a computer named Deep Blue beat world chess champion Garry Kasparov. Is Deep Blue smarter than Kasparov?

Deep Blue might beat him at chess, but if I invented a new card game, Kasparov could probably learn to play it in ten minutes. To get Deep Blue to play something different you'd have to rewrite a large part of the [computer] program. Humans might not be as good as Deep Blue at playing chess, but we're able to do and learn many things very quickly.

Do you think computers will someday be able to do everything the human brain can do?

Yes. It's going to take a long time. There are lots of parts to your brain that seem to have their own tricks, and we're going to have to understand each of those tricks. □

UNDER CONSTRUCTION: Scientists at the MIT lab hope their robot Troody will be as fast and agile as the Troodon dinosaur it's named for.

EXCUSE ME, WHAT'S THE QUICKEST WAY TO JAIL?

Cincinnati, Ohio Two years ago, a New Jersey man was in Ohio and decided to rob a bank. When the teller handed over the money, the robber asked her for directions to the interstate. She described how he could get there—and then told police the directions she'd given the thief. The cops quickly nabbed the out-of-town crook, who was carefully following the teller's instructions.

THE EARLY BIRD GETS ARRESTED

Santa Clarita, California In 1995, two eager bank robbers showed up at a bank wearing ski masks, but the door was locked. It was only 8:55 AM—the bank opened at 9:00—so the robbers decided to wait around for five minutes. Observant bank employees inside the building and passersby took one look at the two guys wearing ski masks in the warm southern California weather and called the police.

MORE AMERICA'S LEAST WANTED

CURSIVE, FOILED AGAIN!

Pearl River, New York A man walked up to a bank teller and silently handed over a note, which demanded all the money in her drawer. The teller couldn't read the man's handwriting, however, so she called over a coworker to help. The second teller also couldn't make out the message, so they asked a third teller. Pretty soon, a whole group of tellers were crowded around the piece of paper. By the time one of them figured out it was a holdup note, the would-be robber had given up and left.

FAKE OUT

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Last October, a robber stole eleven $100 bills from a bank. Police caught the crook less than a mile away but found only one $100 bill on him. When the cops asked the thief where the missing money was, he explained he had thrown the other ten notes down a sewer, because they were fake. Actually, they were real—they were some of the redesigned $100 bills the U.S. Treasury Department had introduced a year and a half earlier.

DEPOSITED...IN JAIL

Peterborough, Ontario, Canada In early 1996, police were able to solve a local bank robbery in record time. A few hours after the crime took place, the crook returned to the very same bank and tried to deposit the stolen money into his account there.

COPPER CAPER

Providence, Rhode Island One thief thought he had scored big when he grabbed four bags of money out of an armored car. The bags turned out to be full of pennies—and weighed 120 pounds. The crook tried to run away with the heavy loot anyway, but he didn't get far before the police caught up to him.

The dumbbell couldn't lift heavy weights.

SMILE AND SAY "SAYONARA"

Arlington, Texas A man who had just robbed an armored car didn't realize he had parked his getaway car next to a bus full of Japanese tourists. As he ran to his vehicle carrying bags of money, the tourists focused their cameras on the crook and snapped away—and the police used the many photos of the robber and his license plate to find the thief.

It's All in Your

I Half to Sing

Your left hand always knows what your right hand is doing, thanks to the corpus callosum. It connects the two hemispheres—or halves—of your brain, so that they can communicate with each other. The right hemisphere controls the left side of the body and responds to music and pictures, among other things. The left hemisphere controls the right side of the body and generally deals with words and numbers.

Picking Favorites

The fold running through the middle of your brain is called the cingulate gyrus (pronounced SING-gyuh-lut JYE-rus). Near the front is a place that seems to get activated when you think about categories. It allows you to pick out all the eclairs on a plate of many desserts, for example.

It's All the Rage

The amygdala (pronounced uh-MIG-duh-luh) is a small bump the size and shape of an almond, which is how it got its name: Amygdala is the Latin word for "almond." Scientists think it might be responsible for your emotions, particularly anger.

Cross Section

Reptile Brain

The stuff that keeps your body alive—such as breathing and the beating of the heart—is taken care of by the brain stem. Because this part of the human brain is a lot like the brains of snakes and lizards, it is often called the reptile brain.

Mozzarella Memories

What did you have for lunch last Tuesday? Whether you remember probably has a lot to do with the hippocampus. It works like the "save" command on a computer, deciding what will become a memory and what will be erased. Brain researchers believe that you form memories when you associate new information with stuff you already know.

Go Steady

Your balance is controlled by two lumps of large brain cells called the cerebellum. The cerebellum (which means "little brain") reads messages coming in from your senses and sends messages out to the parts of the brain that control movement. This communication keeps you from falling down.

Head

The biggest brains in science still have a lot to learn about the human brain. Here's some of what they have figured out about what goes on inside your head. (We've simplified things a bit: These parts of your brain—plus many others—must work together for you to do even the simplest action.)

"All this stuff about the brain is really making me want to _____."

verb

If you filled in a word above, you probably just used an area in the left frontal lobe of your brain, which gets activated when you have to come up with a verb.

by Steven Stern

Real

This Face Rings a Campbell

Scientists think the temporal lobe on the right side of your brain specializes in recognizing faces.

An area near the back of this lobe seems to notice facial features (such as Neve Campbell's eyebrows). The front part of the lobe contains a "catalog" of names and biographical information. In between these two areas is a place that compares one to the other, so you can figure out who's who.

Top View

Hear, Here!

When you hear something, the ear that's closer to the sound hears it a split second before the other ear. One of the jobs of the auditory cortex is to compare the information from each ear in order to figure out where a sound is coming from.

See Spot Run

What you see is processed in the occipital lobe (pronounced ahk-SIH-puh-tal lobe). Different areas in the lobe have different specialties, including color, shape, distance, and motion.

That cat can move!

No Looking

You don't have eyes in the back of your head, but your right parietal lobe (pronounced pa-RYE-uh-tal lobe) is almost as good. It holds onto a 3D mental picture of the space around your body, so you can walk up stairs without looking at your feet or pick up a glass of juice without glancing up from your comic book.

WHY IS THIS GOVERNOR SMILING?

It's official. A grinning Governor Nelson of Nebraska declared Kool-Aid® the official state soft drink. Which makes sense, since Kool-Aid was invented there, way back in 1927. Today there are 18 thirst-quenching flavors. Each fruity one will put a smile on your face, no matter what state you live in.

CONTEST RULES

OFFICIAL RULES - NO PURCHASE NECESSARY

1. HOW TO PLAY: Carefully rub with your finger the indicated portion of the Official Game Card found inside specially marked packages of Post Fruity Pebbles Cereal to reveal the Official Game Message. If the Official Game Message contains the words, "Grand, First or Second Prize Winner," you are the potential winner of the specified prize, subject to verification. To claim a prize, see Rule #2. If the Official Game Message contains the words "Sorry, Try Again," see Rule #4 to enter Second Chance Drawing.

2. CLAIMS: To claim your prize (pending verification), sign your initials in ink on the back of the Official Game Message. On a plain piece of 3"x5" paper, legibly print (or type) your complete name and address (including city, state, and zip code), date of birth, day and evening phone numbers and mail together with your potential winning message in a stamped #10 envelope to: Post Fruity Pebbles Claims, P.O. Box 35993, Los Angeles, CA 90035-0993. Grand Prize claims must be mailed via Registered Mail. All prize claims must be received at the Redemption Center by 11/15/99. All prize claims subject to verification. All claims submitted become the sole property of Kraft Foods, Inc. (Sponsor) and none will be returned. Any claim that is tampered with (except the initials of the potential winner), counterfeited, illegible, mutilated, reproduced, contains printing or other errors, obtained where prohibited by law or not obtained through authorized legitimate channels, will be null and void. Sponsor, affiliates, subsidiaries, and agencies are not responsible for printing, distribution or production errors. No correspondence will be acknowledged.

3. NO PURCHASE NECESSARY: To receive one game message without purchase, while supplies last, send a legibly hand-printed, self-addressed, stamped #10 envelope to: Post Fruity Pebbles Request, P.O. Box 35995, Los Angeles, CA 90035-0995. Requests must be received by 10/13/99. Residents of WA and VT only may omit return postage. Limit one request per envelope mailed separately.

4. SECOND CHANCE DRAWING: Any unclaimed Grand Prizes will be awarded in a Second Chance Drawing on or about 11/18/99 from among all eligible Second Chance entries received. To enter, legibly hand-print your complete name, address (including city, state, zip code) and day and evening telephone number on a plain piece of 3"x5" paper and mail in a hand-addressed, stamped #10 envelope to: Post Fruity Pebbles Second Chance Drawing, P.O. Box 35999, Los Angeles, CA 90035-0999. Limit one entry per outer envelope. Entries must be received by 10/13/99. No mechanically reproduced entries permitted. Odds of winning depend on number of unclaimed Grand Prizes and number of second chance entries received. Potential winner(s) will be notified by mail.

5. PRIZES/ODDS: Ten (10) Grand Prizes of one trip for four to Orlando, FL. Trip consists of round-trip coach class air transportation on the airline of Sponsor's choice from the major U.S. commercial airport nearest winner's residence to Orlando, FL; 4 days/3 nights hotel accommodations (2 rooms, double-occupancy); four one-day passes per person to four area amusement theme parks in Orlando, FL; a mid-size rental car for four days; $1,200 spending money. Approximate Retail Value (ARV): $6,500.00 each. Odds of winning Grand Prize are 1 in 540,000. Prize travel must be completed by one year after the date the prize is awarded. Air travel and hotel accommodations are subject to availability and holiday/blackout dates. Winner and guests must travel together. All incidental expenses not specified herein including but not limited to meals, gratuities, travel to and from airports are solely winner's responsibility. 1,000 First Prizes - one "Wacky Fred" T-shirt (ARV: $10.00). Odds of winning First Prize are 1 in 5,400. 100 Second Prizes - one "Fred & Barney" Hat (ARV: $5.00). Odds of winning Second Prize are 1 in 54,000. Approximate retail value of all prizes: $75,000.

6. GENERAL RULES: Game open to U.S. residents age 18 or younger as of 11/15/99. Employees of Kraft Foods, Inc., its parent, affiliates, subsidiaries, advertising and promotion agencies, printers of all game materials, persons living in the same household, whether related or not, and the families of each are not eligible. Void where prohibited by law. All federal, state, and local laws and regulations apply. All federal, state, and local taxes, and other charges, if any, are the sole responsibility of the winner. Winners will be notified by mail. If a Grand Prize winner is a minor, the prize will be awarded in the name of parent or legal guardian, and he/she must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian. Potential winners will be required to sign and return any required Affidavit of Eligibility/Release of Liability within twenty-one days of notification. Winner's guests will also be required to execute a Liability Release. Limit one prize per family/household. Non-compliance within this time or return of any prize notification as undeliverable may result in disqualification and forfeiture of prize. No substitution or transfer of prize permitted, unless prize is generally available at game's end, in which case a prize of equal or greater value will be substituted. Sponsor is not responsible for lost, late, or misdirected mail. By participating, winner releases Kraft Foods, Inc., its parent, affiliates, subsidiaries, advertising and promotion agencies, the judging organization and their respective directors, officers, employees and agents, from any and all liability with respect to all aspects of the Game and the possession, acceptance, use or misuse of any prizes. By entering the Game, participants agree to abide by and be bound by these Official Rules and the decisions of an independent judging organization, whose decisions are final in all matters relating to this game. If due to a printing or production error, more prizes are claimed than intended to be awarded according to Rule 5, prizes will be awarded in a random drawing, per prize category, from among all eligible prize claims received. Acceptance of prize offered constitutes permission to use winner's name and/or likeness for advertising/trade purposes without further compensation, unless prohibited by law.

Who's the Wise Guy?

You may not be the smartest person in your class, but here's your big chance to act as though you are. Next time you take a test, follow these simple instructions.

Before the test, ask the teacher:

"Which language do you want the answers in: Latin, Greek, or Sanskrit?"

"We have a whole half-hour to complete the test? What am I supposed to do for the remaining 27 minutes?"

"Is it possible for me to take a few other tests at the same time?"

While taking the test, say (loudly enough for all to hear):

"Done!" [Say it as soon as the teacher tells you to begin.]

"Only _____ questions?"
number

"Surely these could be more challenging!"

"What a remarkable coincidence! I think I wrote this test!"

"I mean, how do you expect us to stay awake?"

"I'll put down the answers you want me to say, even though they're wrong."

After the test, say to the teacher:

"I hope you don't hurt your wrist writing all the pluses after the A on mine."

"What was that test supposed to prove—that we're not brain dead?"

Or: When you finish, throw the test to the ground like a football player spiking the ball after scoring a touchdown, and then shimmy around it.

This reminds me of my school days at Barkley University.

Super Stumpers

Here's your chance to host your own quiz show. First try solving the tough brain teasers below. Then look at the answers on page 78. Next try to stump your friends by reading each Super Stumper out loud. Tell them to ask you yes or no questions about the characters or situation until they guess the answer or give up.

1 Thirty kids play together after school, sitting down the whole time. They read as they play. After they go home and eat dinner, their parents drive them back to school to play at night.

What's going on?

2 After a long weekend, Jan and Frederic are found Monday morning lying on the floor of their home, surrounded by bits of wood. They are nearly dead because Carmelita forgot something.

How did Jan and Frederic almost die, and what did Carmelita forget to do?

3 Twenty people all use the same one-man parachute at the same time, yet somehow everyone survives the experience. The only injury is a small bruise on one person's face.

How can this be explained?

4 Mr. Caldwell's volcano experiment set off the fire alarm and sprinkler in his third period science class. Everything in the classroom was soaked: the kids, the desks, the blackboard, even all the science materials. Everyone had wet hair, except Mr. Caldwell.

How can this be?

CLASSIC COMIC

The comic strip Pogo was created in 1948 by Walt Kelly, who had been an animator for the movies Dumbo and Fantasia. Kelly worked on the strip for more than 25 years. Pogo Possum was a mild-mannered marsupial who lived in the Okefenokee swamp (a real swamp in Florida and Georgia) with such arrogant animal friends as Dr. Howland Owl, Albert the Alligator, and a turtle named Churchy-la-Femme.

When moviemakers and TV writers want to use a creepy body part to scare an audience, they have several options. They can feature hands (as in The Beast With Five Fingers) or eyes (as in The Crawling Eye)—or they can use their heads and go with a brain. Chris Houghton compiled a catalog of Hollywood's most mindful movies.

That's Enter brainment!

CLOCKWISE FROM LEFT: Doctor and monster in the original Frankenstein; Donovan's Brain with Nancy Reagan and friend; the poster for The Brain That Wouldn't Die.

It's Alive!

Brains and horror movies joined forces for the first time in Frankenstein (1931), in which Dr. Henry Frankenstein creates a man from spare parts found in the cemeteries and gallows in his neighborhood. The creature's body works fine, but unfortunately, Dr. Frankenstein's hunchbacked, butterfingers assistant, Fritz, drops the brain intended for the monster. So the creature gets the "abnormal brain of the typical criminal" instead. This brain bungle causes lots of trouble until villagers with pitchforks do away with Frankenstein's creepy creation.

Better Living Through Chemicals

Unlike Frankenstein, the brain films of the Fifties and Sixties feature evil gray matter with no body at all. In Donovan's Brain (1953), a ruthless financial tycoon nearly dies in a plane crash. A scientist saves his brain and keeps it alive in a fish tank of chemicals. They must be pretty good chemicals, because the brain steadily increases in size and starts telepathically controlling the scientist and making him commit crimes. Donovan's Brain is memorable for its brainy villain and also for co-starring future First Lady Nancy Reagan.

She's Got a Good Head (But No Shoulders)

The Brain That Wouldn't Die (1963) also tells the story of a scientist who saves a brain—only this time it's not a stranger's brain he rescues but his fiancée's.

continued →

More
That's Enterbrainment!

The poster for The Brain From Planet Arous.

The scientist doesn't keep just her brain alive—he saves her whole head. Despite being cut off at the neck, this head can still talk. While she “sits” in a tray in the lab, her boyfriend spends a lot of the movie attending swimsuit competitions to find a new body for her head.

How Vol-Gor!

The Brain From Planet Arous (1958) has one of the strangest plots of any gray-matter movie. An evil floating brain from outer space named Gor takes over a scientist's body and plans to conquer Earth with his “power of pure intellect.” With this power, he can blow up planes and buildings. Luckily, a good floating brain, Vol, follows Gor to Earth and tries to stop him. Vol takes over the brain of the scientist's dog so that he can spy on Gor. Eventually this good alien helps some humans bring Gor to a gory end.

The Flying Cerebellum Brothers

Brains in scary movies usually aren't very athletic—they wreak havoc while floating in a tank or sitting in a dish—but not in Fiend Without a Face (1958). In this film, the brainy menaces are invisible through most of the movie, but when they become visible, you can see them crawl, climb, and fly. Another unique feature of these brains is their whip-like spinal cord tails, which they use to strangle their victims.

Bad brain from Fiend Without a Face.

Microsurgeons in Fantastic Voyage.

Sub Conscious

In Fantastic Voyage (1966), the brain has no evil powers but still plays a huge role. When an important scientist is found to have an inoperable blood clot in his brain, a submarine is shrunk down to microscopic size so that it can enter the man's body and zap away the clot with a tiny laser. Inside the brain, the really small crew loses their ship to a rampaging white blood cell before they complete their mission.

Empty-Head Syndrome

Eventually TV got in on the brain act with a 1968 episode of Star Trek called “Spock's Brain,” back when the crew of the original Enterprise was a lot younger and skinnier. An alien woman beams aboard the starship and steals Mr. Spock's brain, without harming his body. Her motive? She needs it to run a mega-computer that powers her planet. Captain Kirk steals back his friend's brain, and Dr. McCoy reconnects it—with a little coaching from Spock himself.

Reconnect me, Scotty!

A brainless Mr. Spock is operated by remote control in Star Trek's “Spock's Brain.”

FROM THE LITE SCIENCE LIBRARY

While doing research for this issue, we stumbled upon an old copy of Meet the Brain, from the 1956 Lite Science Library. Here's an excerpt from that charmingly old-fashioned, outdated volume. Oh, how we have grown!

The Mind Through the Ages

The question "What is the human mind?" is almost as old as the human mind itself. Each era in human history, including ours, has had its own answers.

THE STONE AGE (CIRCA 14,000 BC)

French archaeologists working in the Letsgo Caves have recently reconstructed what our cave-dwelling ancestors thought of the mind. Memories, they naively believed, were chiseled into slabs of stone housed inside the skull.

THE INDUSTRIAL AGE (1800s)

During the Industrial Age, scientists obsessed with factories believed that the brain was composed of coal furnaces, gears, and smokestacks. The same scientists figured that bad thoughts were sooty deposits in the back of the mind.

THE ATOMIC AGE (TODAY)

Fortunately, we have come a long way from our misguided ancestors. In today's modern world of 1956, we know that memories are recorded on tiny vinyl 45-rpm records within the soul.

Déjà Vu: Four Theories

Once in a while something happens to you, and it seems as if it has happened before. This is known as déjà vu (French for "already seen"). For centuries, science has tried to explain this puzzling phenomenon. Here are four modern theories:

1 The Van Thalamus Theory

Hans Van Thalamus, a Dutch geneticist and genes manufacturer, maintained that when we have a déjà vu experience, we are actually reliving events that our parents experienced. Van Thalamus later said that not only did his theory make no sense, but he had already come up with the same theory once before.

2 The Rerun Theory

Professor Neelson Familee stated that the brain needs to rest in the summer, so it plays back events, sights, and sounds—or reruns—of things that have already occurred. This theory, however, only explains déjà vus that take place in the summer and does not explain why our memories are commercial-free.

3 The Really, Really Simple Theory

We think something has happened before because it has.

4 The Van Thalamus Theory

Hans Van Thalamus, a Dutch geneticist and genes manufacturer, maintained that when we have a déjà vu experience, we are actually reliving events that our parents experienced. Van Thalamus later said that not only did his theory make no sense, but he had already come up with the same theory once before.

The Capacity to Learn

Animals have varying degrees of learning ability. The photos below are from a famous experiment that tested the learning capacity of one of the "lower" animals.

1 First, a researcher placed a mouse in a maze with a tasty bit of cheese in the center.

2 After several tries, the mouse was able to figure out the path to the center of the maze. Upon examining his paltry reward, the mouse shook his tiny fist in rage at the stingy scientist.

3 A few minutes later, the mouse found his way to the telephone, whereupon he ordered Chinese food.

4 The mouse settled down to a delicious dinner, reading the Sunday paper as he ate. The scientist was generously given one paltry piece of broccoli.

CONCLUSION: Mice aren't as dumb as you think, you big hairless apes!

—by A. Mouse

MEASURING THE MIND

Modern science has made many miraculous advances in the study of the brain. The electroencephalograph (EEG) is one of them. Electrodes placed on the skull measure electric waves emitted by the brain. The EEG's printout can reveal many things about the person whose brain waves have been measured.

Real

Stock-car driver Jeff Gordon won more races—and money—than any other NASCAR competitor during the 1997 season, and he's headed down the same road for 1998.

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: How old were you when you started racing cars?

JEFF GORDON: I started racing quarter-midgets when I was five. Quarter-midgets are similar to go-carts, but with roll bars and seat belts. When I was about nine, I stepped up to faster versions that go between fifty and sixty miles per hour.

What's the fastest you've ever driven?

We don't have speedometers in our cars, so we don't really go by top speed. We go by fastest lap time. I've definitely driven more than two hundred miles per hour.

Are you a backseat driver off the track?

I'm horrible. I'm always saying, "Turn here, go here." I do some public appearances, and they'll want to rent a limousine and put me in the back, and I say, "Listen, just get me a car and let me drive."

I'm a backseat drooler.

Crew chief Ray Evernham is in charge of the 30-person team that keeps Jeff's car running.

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: What does a crew chief do?

RAY EVERNHAM: I do everything from helping design the car to managing the [car-building] shop and communicating with Jeff [via radio] while he's racing. He lets me know how the car is handling, and I let him know when he has to stop in the pit.

How fast can your crew change a tire?

We change all four tires and put twenty-two gallons of gas in the car in just under seventeen seconds.

How important is one extra second?

A car traveling two hundred miles per hour goes the length of a football field each second. So if you lose just one second in the pit stop, your car is going to be a football-field length behind the other cars.

When you're taking a trip and you have to stop to use the bathroom, do you ever say "I have to make a pit stop"?

I suppose so. If it's a long trip.

PACO

Drew Drops In

Real

Since her first starring role at the age of seven, Drew Barrymore has been touched by an alien in E.T. The Extra-Terrestrial, scared to death by fiends in Scream, and swept off her feet by Adam Sandler in The Wedding Singer. In her latest movie, Ever After, Drew went back in time to play Danielle, a brave and brainy princess-to-be. Drew answered our questions wisely.

DOUBLE TAKE: Drew as a servant (top) and a noblewoman (left) with Ever After costar Dougray Scott.

Hey, Drew, how do you like them apples?

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: How is Ever After different from the traditional Cinderella fairy tale?

DREW BARRYMORE: In the Cinderella I knew growing up, the prince fell in love with her at first sight. In this version, the prince falls in love with her heart and mind.

When you were a kid, did you dream of being Cinderella?

Yes, but as an adult, I dream about being this kind of Cinderella [in Ever After], because I don't want to sit around and wait to be rescued. Like her, I want to rescue other people.

What were your favorite fairy tales and stories growing up?

Cinderella, The Wizard of Oz, and Alice's Adventures in Wonderland.

Where did you stay while filming Ever After?

We all lived in the chateau [castle] in France, where the movie takes place. It's not a modern building. Boy, was I shocked to watch TV again after four months without it!

So how did you pass the time when you weren't working?

I read twelve books.

How did you like French food?

I starved, let me put it that way! [laughs] I'm a vegetarian, and in France that is one of the worst things you can imagine, because they eat so much meat there. Basically I ate bread, cheese, and apples for breakfast, and bread, cheese, and tomatoes for lunch. It was really hard.

In this movie, you speak with an English accent. Was it difficult to learn?

Yes, very difficult. I worked with a coach for four months prior to filming.

Are you at all like your character, Danielle?

I love that Danielle is so smart and well-read. I love that she's willing to overcome her fear of being punished for trying to save other people. Danielle is all the things that I want to be. I don't know if I'm there yet, but I'm certainly working very hard at it.

In Ever After, which costumes did you prefer: Danielle as a servant or as a noblewoman?

I loved the wings I wore at the ball, but the scenes where I got to be scruffy were even more fun—I enjoyed making candles, climbing trees, swimming in rivers, picking wildflowers, and chopping wood. These days, we turn on light switches, buy flowers at the flower store, and put Duraflame logs in our fireplaces. It's so different.

Was your long brown hair real or a wig?

Most of it was my hair, but the very back was a hairpiece to give it length.

THREE SCENES (clockwise from top left): Danielle pining alone; arguing with the prince; and obeying her evil stepmother, played by Anjelica Huston.

HAPPY DAYS: Drew with The Wedding Singer costar Adam Sandler.

Which role was more challenging to play: Danielle or Julia from The Wedding Singer?

They were both a challenge, but trying to re-create the Renaissance period [1400s-1600s] in Ever After added an extra element of difficulty for everyone.

What is Adam Sandler, your costar in The Wedding Singer, like off-camera?

This is how thoughtful Adam is: He gave me a jukebox for my birthday and filled it up with all my favorite music—the Beatles, the Rolling Stones, Bob Dylan, and the Beach Boys.

Would you have him sing at your wedding?

If and when I get married, he'll certainly be there, and he knows the song I'd want him to sing: "That's How Strong My Love Is," by Otis Redding. It's my favorite song, and he put it in the very first slot of the jukebox he gave me.

What are your favorite TV shows?

Seinfeld and The Larry Sanders Show—both of which went off the air. I'm devastated!

And what is your favorite food?

Macaroni and cheese.

Is it true that you love butterflies?

Yes. I appreciate the caterpillar's metamorphosis—how even though something is seen as odd, it can become really beautiful. Growing up, I had a tough time in school. I was horribly made fun of, and I never fit in, but I've learned that there's an entire world beyond school where I was able to become a happy adult.

Do you have any pets?

I have four dogs, and chickens, roosters, lovebirds, parakeets, and a brand-new cat that came to my house one day and said, "I think I need some food"— he has been coming back ever since. □

ALIEN ACQUAINTANCE: Drew (center) with her E.T. costars.

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: Do you get nervous before performing?

A.J. McLEAN: I don't get nervous—I'm a natural ham.

HOWIE DOROUGH: I get butterflies in my stomach, especially when family or friends are in the audience.

NICK CARTER: I was pretty nervous at the World Music Awards, because we had to sing a cappella [without music] in front of people such as Mariah Carey, Puff Daddy, and Gloria Estefan. My leg was twitching a little.

How do you pass the time on long bus rides when you're on tour?

A.J.: I talk on the phone, watch a movie, or write poetry.

HOWIE: I watch movies, but I usually fall asleep halfway through.

NICK: I play video games.

When you're on the road, what do you miss most?

A.J.: Sleeping in my own bed.

HOWIE: My mom's cooking.

NICK: Playing with my little brother and sisters.

What's the funniest thing that has ever happened onstage?

HOWIE: One time, during a song called "Get Down," Nick swung his arms to the side, not realizing that I was standing right next to him. The next thing I knew, I was floating in the air, praying for a pillow to catch me. Luckily there was a security guard right there, and I just plopped right into his arms.

When you were younger, did other kids ever make fun of you for singing?

A.J.: Oh, yeah. In fact, a friend just told me that back in school I was known as a real nerd. I said, "Well, thank you! I didn't know at the time, but thanks for bringing that to my attention now!"

HOWIE: When I was twelve, I had a very high voice, so once in a while I'd hear chuckles when I sang in musicals. In high school, though, kids started respecting me for performing.

BOYS

NICK: Kids definitely gave me a hard time, but that made me strive even harder for success.

Do you play any instruments?

A.J.: I'm learning to play the bass guitar, and I want to learn the saxophone.

NICK: I've played the drums for four years.

HOWIE: I took guitar lessons when I was younger, and I decided to pick it up again when we were working on the "Quit Playing Games (With My Heart)" video.

Have you had a chance to meet any of your idols?

A.J.: I got to meet one person who I really, truly wanted to meet—Gwen Stefani—at the Billboard Music Awards.

HOWIE: I met Jon Secada. I'm a big fan of both his Spanish music and his English music. I'd love to meet Mariah Carey.

NICK: I'd really like to meet Steve Perry from the band Journey.

Do you have any celebrity crushes?

A.J.: Jennifer Love Hewitt, Geena Davis, and Denise Richards [from Starship Troopers].

HOWIE: Salma Hayek [from Fools Rush In].

NICK: Christina Ricci.

I have a crush
on Wishbone.

Who would you cast in a Backstreet Boys movie, if you couldn't play yourselves?

A.J.: Let's see. Tom Cruise could play Kevin, Antonio Banderas could play Howie, Mark Wahlberg could play Brian, Leonardo DiCaprio could play Nick, and Luke Perry could play me. □

Real Morphing Around

IN THE BEGINNING...

If you've only seen the covers of K.A. Applegate's Animorphs books, you might wonder how normal teens can turn themselves into animals. Here's the lowdown:

It all started when five kids (Jake, Rachel, Cassie, Tobias, and Marco) found a dying alien named Elfangor. He warned them that Earth was being secretly invaded by the Yeerks—an evil alien species that takes control of people's brains. Just before he died, Elfangor gave the teens a powerful weapon: the ability to morph into any living creature they touch. With Elfangor gone and Yeerk-controlled humans everywhere, the Animorphs must rely on their new abilities—and on one another—to defeat the Yeerks and save the planet.

HUMANS AT WORK

On Nickel-O-Zone's new Animorphs, human characters turn into wild animals through some pretty special effects. But on the set in Toronto, Canada, actors and animals—from lions to lizards—work side by side. We recently chatted with the humans about their animalistic coworkers.

Christopher Ralph: Tobias

Morphs into: hawk

On acting: "I've done a lot of theater, but this is my first time in front of the camera. I was terrified at my audition."

On bringing the book series to television: "We all want fans to watch the show and say, 'Wow! This is just how I pictured it...and more!'"

Boris Cabrera: Marco

Morphs into: wolf, lizard, python, rat, cockroach, butterfly

Funniest animal moment: "We were filming a scene in which a horse comes up behind Brooke [Nevin] and nudges her in the back. But the horse nudged her so hard, she went flying into Christopher's arms."

On science fiction: "It's cool. I'm into The X-Files and X-Men comics."

Nadia Nascimento: Cassie

Morphs into: horse, skunk, rabbit, crocodile, butterfly, cockroach

Favorite Animorphs animal: "Bongo, the lion."

Once, when he was sleeping in his cage, I lay down a foot away, to see what it would be like to lie in the middle of the jungle with a lion. It was just like lying next to your cat, except he's really big."

LIONIZED: Brooke morphs into a lion.

Brooke Nevin: Rachel

Morphs into: lion, fly, cat, cockroach, butterfly

Funniest animal moment: "In one scene I had to make a hawk jump onto my arm. To entice it, I had to hold out a chicken leg. Then I watched as it ate the chicken leg right there on my arm, which grossed me out a little bit."

Animal she'd like to morph into: "A bird of prey, such as a hawk. An animal that could soar."

Shawn Ashmore: Jake

Morphs into: tiger, lizard, dog, butterfly, cockroach

Scariest animal moment: "I had to pet a white tiger, and Michael Hackenberger [the animal trainer, see "Great Tame," right] told me exactly what I could and couldn't do, such as 'Don't move your hand away quickly' and 'Don't run away, because it'll think you're prey and come after you.' So I started petting the tiger, and somehow it jerked its head, and my fingers went up its nose. I thought, 'If this isn't the time to move my hand away, I don't know what is!' But I also thought, 'If I move my hand away, the tiger will probably bite me,' so I stood there in shock."

What happened next: "I kept on petting until I heard Michael say, 'Back away, back away,' which is what I did. It was kind of cool and funny, but at the time I was pretty scared."

GREAT TAME

Animal trainer Michael Hackenberger is also director of the Bowmanville Zoo near Toronto, which has provided animals for the TV show Goosebumps, the movie Billy Madison, and now Animorphs. He didn't bite when we asked him these questions.

NICKELODEON MAGAZINE: What was the first animal you trained?

MICHAEL HACKENBERGER: When I was around seven, I had a little white rat named Picadilly. I trained her to open drawers and sit in a small chair.

Which Animorphs animal has the most acting experience?

Bongo, the lion, has been in more than twelve feature films, including George of the Jungle.

How do you protect the actors?

If there's any possibility of danger, I stand in for the actor. I doubled for Brooke Shields once by wearing a wig. You couldn't tell it was me, because the director made sure the shots were quick.

Do you have any pets?

I have a young serval, which is an African wildcat about the size of a golden Lab. But I wouldn't recommend them to most people as pets. I'm in a unique situation.

What animal would you like to morph into?

An elephant, because that is my favorite creature. I'd really like to know how an elephant feels.

Animorphs premieres in the Nickel-0-Zone on Friday, September 4, at 8:30 PM. The show will also air at 9:30 PM on SNICK. Show airs one hour earlier in central time zone. Show times are subject to change. Check local listings for details.

Home Boys

The star of Nickelodeon's new comedy Cousin Skeeter is not your average kid. Fast-talking and worldly wise, Skeeter manages to turn his cousin Bobby's life upside down and save the day—all at once. To help you get to know them, we collected the following facts on the mismatched cousins.

BOBBY

SKEETER

	BOBBY	SKEETER
GREW UP IN:	Los Angeles	Atlanta
NOW LIVES IN:	New York City	New York City
MAINLY KNOWN AS:	Skeeter's cousin and student	Bobby's cousin and tutor
ALSO KNOWN AS:	Skeeter's keeper	Master DJ, gourmet cook, piano virtuoso, and basketball whiz
SHORTCOMING:	He's shy.	He's short.
CLAIM TO FAME:	Once met Whitney Houston's wig maker	Hangs out with hotshots, such as MC Lyte, Usher, Shaquille O'Neal, Veronica Webb, and Tisha Campbell
IS DRAWN TO:	His neighbor Nina	Every girl he meets
HAS TROUBLE:	Solving algebra problems	Keeping his mouth shut
TYPICAL REPLY TO "WHAT'S UP?":	"Not much."	"Chillin' like a villain, Bob Dylan, but yo! Don Ho is illin'!"
TYPICAL EXCLAMATION:	"What are we going to do now ?"	"Burp!"

Cousin Skeeter premieres on SNICK, September 1, at 8:30 PM, and airs in the Nickel-O-Zone Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8:30 PM. Show airs one hour earlier in central time zone. Show times are subject to change. Check local listings for details.

Hey, Herb!

Real

Where you ask the president of Nickelodeon, Herb Scannell, anything you want.

Were you ever the teacher's pet?

I think I was the teacher's pet for one year, in first grade. Then I became more of a class clown, though I never got sent to the principal's office. I was just a prankster.

Did you ever sleep in a bunk bed?

Yes, my brother and I slept in bunk beds when I was six or seven. My brother slept in the top bed, and I slept in the bottom one, because I was younger.

What's your favorite amusement park ride?

I like water slides.

Were you afraid of the dentist when you were a kid?

Yes, I hated going to the dentist. I have fillings in just about every tooth. I still hate going to the dentist—when I'm there I read a magazine and wait for it to be over.

Were you a picky eater?

I was a very picky eater. My mom made rice and beans a lot, and I used to separate the beans and put the sauce only on the rice.

What's New on Nick

by Erica Pass

Real

Animorphs and Cousin Skeeter aren't the only shows appearing in Nickelodeon's new Nickel-O-Zone. Below are some new and returning shows you'll find Sundays through Fridays, from 8 to 9 PM.

What's New With Woo?

It's moving day for Shelby Woo as she leaves Cocoa Beach, Florida, for a town near Boston, where there's less sunshine, more snow, and just as many mysteries to solve. The new season of The Mystery Files of Shelby Woo premieres on Sunday, September 6, at 8 PM.

Go Wild!

The Wild Thornberrys may sound like the latest fancy fruit, but it's actually the newest Nicktoon. Traveling from jungle to jungle, the Thornberry family has its share of adventures—especially 12-year-old Eliza, who has a powerful secret: She can talk to the animals. Here's another secret: Lacey Chabert of Party of Five and Lost in Space is the voice of Eliza. The show premieres on Tuesday, September 1, at 8 PM.

Strange Journey

A special two-part episode of The Journey of Allen Strange airs on Monday, September 28 (Part 1), and Wednesday, September 30 (Part 2), at 8 PM. In it, alien Allen and his earthling friends Robbie and Josh discover a portal to another galaxy in the middle of a bowling alley. The new season of Allen Strange premieres Monday, August 31, at 8:30 PM.

*Shows air one hour earlier in the central time zone. Show times subject to change. Check local listings for details.

THE JOKES

by David Lewman

What happened when one head bumped into another head?

It started a brain reaction.

Why did the geniuses' baseball game end so late?

There was a brain delay.

What kind of music do brains like best?

Heavy mental.

How does a cerebellum say good-bye?

With a brain wave.

Why didn't Rosalind take the math test?

She wanted to save it for a brainy day.

What did Bob's boss say as he stuck his finger up Bob's nose?

"I want to pick your brain."

I'd have a bone to pick with him.

Why did the sculptor go crazy?

He lost his marbles.

What do you call an expert on minds?

A real know-brainer.

What did the philosopher say to his guest?

"Would you like something to think?"

Why did Daniel stick lipstick in his ear?

He wanted to make up his mind.

Why did the firefly keep bumping into things?

He wasn't very bright.

Knock, knock.

Who's there?

Amnesia.

Amnesia who?

Um...I forget.

Why did Ryan train a chicken to nest in his hair?

He wanted to be an egghead.

All Work and No Play Makes Jack a Dull Dentist (page 7):

1-G, 2-D, 3-A, 4-E, 5-C, 6-B, 7-F, 8-H.

Super Stumpers (page 32):

1. The 30 kids play in the school orchestra. They had a rehearsal in the afternoon and a concert that night.
2. Jan and Frederic are hamsters in a school classroom. Carmelita is a student who forgot to take them home on Thursday and feed them. They almost starved to death because it was a long weekend!
3. The 20 people were kids in a gym class, all playing with a parachute—standing in a circle, lifting the edges of the parachute, and waving the fabric to move a ball around the parachute's surface. The ball flew off the parachute and hit one kid in the face.
4. Mr. Caldwell is completely bald.

I'm completely fur.

Mind Game (page 32):

BODY, BONY, BOND, BIND, MIND.

Class Differences (pages 55-6):

Along the left wall: The principal is gone and a pizza delivery man is now in the doorway, which has been decorated with beads; the clock over the door has been replaced by a dartboard; the globe has been replaced with a soccer ball; and a parrot is perched on the pencil sharpener. Along the back wall: The poster of the human body has been replaced with a poster of Xena; the overhead light is a disco ball; the alphabet strip over the blackboard says "Aaaaaaaayiiii..."; the boy who was writing "I will not pass notes" has switched it to "I will not pass gas"; and the chalkboard eraser is now a hamburger. The teacher's desk area: The teacher is gone and two kids are playing table tennis on her desk; the apple has been replaced by a baseball; the pens in the pen holder are lollipops; and the map on the computer screen is now a video game. Rows of desks—Front row: The girl who was reading is now turning around and talking, and her green ponytail holder is blue; the boy next to her has stopped writing and is sitting on his desk blowing a bubble; and the boy in the orange shirt is playing table tennis. Second row: The middle girl is playing table tennis; and the red-haired girl has stopped writing and is lying on her desk playing with a yo-yo. Back row: The girl on the left has put the wastebasket on her desk and is shooting baskets; the middle boy is seated in a bumper car; the boy in the football jersey is now climbing up the wall behind the teacher's desk; a dog is sitting on the boy's desk, and the boy's chair is knocked over. Right side of picture: The turtle in the terrarium is sitting in a chair watching TV; and a genie is coming out of the beaker on the table.
